A ROUND OF TALK.

Small Boy's Lament.

I don't kick and romp with glee
Cause the summer days are here,
I'm not filled with joy to see
Scented flowers all appear,
And the balmy atmosphere
Doesn't make me hop with vim.
What's the use? Ma jest said:
"Don't you dare go down to swim."

Merry thoughts don't rise in me;
As the daisies they come out,
I'm not filled with ecstacy
As the bees they buzz about;
I'm not filled up to the spout
With a lot of lazy wishin'.
What's the use? Ma jest said:
"Don't you dare to go off fishin."

I don't dream the livelong day
Un'erneath a shady tree,
And if winter'd cared to stay
'Twould have been the same to me;
Summer don't fill me with glee
And I wish that it would pass.
What's the use? Ma jest said:
"Don't you lie on that damp grass',
—F. P. Pitzer in New York Sun

FOR BELKNAP—As the time approaches for the Republican convention to nominate a candidate for Governor there appears to be a rapidly growing sentiment in favor of Col. Morris B. Belknap as the best man for the honor. In Washington county Belknap is certainly the choice among the Republicans and the indications are that the delegates from this county will be instructed to vote for him at the State convention. Expressions from Republican voters and workers from all over the county indicate that Belknap is their choice for the simple reason that they believe him to be the strongest man to put up as a candidate and for the further reason that they believe he will make a fine chief executive The county convention will be held at the Court House here next Saturday afternoon and the Republicans of the county will turn out in full force.

SHOCKED —They do say that the county Magistrates at a meeting the other day called to consider the small pox situation were given a "jar" from which they may never fully recover. The present county administration has been making a good record along the line of economy in conducting county business—a matter in which the officials take considerable pride, and the facts which they were called upon to face at the meeting gave them a decided sensation. At the breaking out of the various cases of small-pox in the county, the county board of health took charge and medical attention was engaged all at the expense of the county. This it seems was done without any definite trade having been made as to charges. The meeting of the Magistrates last week was called for the purpose of adjusting all claims which might be presented on account of the small-pox epidemic. Only a portion of the claims were handed in, but some of these were enough to make the hair of the Magistrates—including the baldheaded ones—stand on end The total ran away up into four figures, and more to hear from The court decided to plead for time to recover from the shock, so an adjournment was secured until today, when the matter will be taken up again. In order to avoid trouble or misunderstand ings of any kind contracts should be made with physicians and others called upon to do work for the county, on account of small pox or anything else

THEY MISSED IT—The patrons in the county of the various rural mail routes on the 4th of July were brought to fully realize what a good thing it is to receive daily mail at their doors. On that day the carriers were allowed to observe the holiday and consequently no mail was taken out. It is said that many of the box owners watched anxiously all day for the mail wagons and were much disappointed on their non-arrival. Some of the patrons of the rural delivery—and not a few who were opposed to it—now cannot understand how it is that they could have lived without it as long as they have.

BASE BALL—Springfield has its annual base ball fever and this season it appears in a very aggravated form. The players are enthusiastic and there is a large crop of local "fans" on hand to keep up the feeling. There appears to be no lack of good material among the local boys and all that is needed is to organize and practice. New grounds, or rather the ones formerly used on T. W. Simms place are being fitted up and the club is now prepared to meet all comers. Manager C. T. Cunningham will endeavor to arrange for some match games with neighboring clubs in the near future.

CAUTION

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds, perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents, At all druggists. C. J. Haydon

Cholera Infantum.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain, For sale by Haydon's drugstore.

Just About Bedtime

take a Little Early Riser—It will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles, DeWitt's Little Early Risers are different from other pills. They do not gripe and break down the mucous membranes of the stomach, liver and bowels, but cure by gently arousing the secretions and giving strength to these organs. Sold by C. J. Haydon.

Will Camp At Jackson.

Governor Beckham has determined to hold the camp of instruction for the Second regiment and the Louisville batteries this year at Jackson. The order of holding the encampment will be arranged by Adjt. Gen. Murray and Col. Williams, If the troops are needed at Jackson longer than the closing days of July, the Third regiment may be ordered into camp there, otherwise the Third regiment encampment will be located at some point in Western Kentucky.

The Peake Guards of Shelbyville, belong to the Second regiment and most of them have seen active duty in Breathitt county. The coming camp of instruction will be preparatory to the government camp of instruction to the regulars and State Guards of the States embraced in the Department of the Lakes, to be held at West Point, Hardin county, in October next.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria Ind, "and could hardly get any sleep, I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three $1,00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 53 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. J. Haydon's drugstore.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN CURES INDIGESTION.

Rat Story.

The Clerks at the Curry Grocery Company at Junction City have been very much mystified for the past three weeks over the disappearance of the ink from their desks. They would fill the ink stands and when they turned their backs the ink never failed to disappear from the well of the bottle. A watch was set and a mouse proved to be the thief. He had grown so fat on the fluid and his sides bulged out to such an extent that it could hardly wobble along. On last Saturday one of the Curry clerks set a rat trap and caught eight rodents. He took the cage out in the street and turned them out one at a time and a terrier finished all but one in quick order. An old hound from the knobs was lying in the street some fifteen yards away but was not interested enough in the slaughter to get on its feet When the last rat was dumped from the trap it made a bee line for the hound who opened its mouth to yawn and the rat ran down the dog's throat Had the hound swallowed a live coal it could not have cut more funny capers. Finally the dog struck out over the big knob yelping at every jump—as if the rat was gnawing at its vitals, which was probably the case. This will be vouched for by Mr. Clarence Nugent—Harrodsburg Herald.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick of Colusa Calif, writes. "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried every thing known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by C. J. Haydon druggist.

The Last of a Noted Farm

Mr. Cecil Barrett, of New York, who owned at one time the major portion of the tract of land known as the Bon Harbor farm, is preparing through his agent, Mr. E. J. Buckman, to divide 240 acres of the tract into ten-acre plots and sell them for truck gardening purposes. Mr. Barrett formerly owned 1,100 acres in the locality and this was divided up into 100-acre lots and all but the 240 acres sold for farming purposes. The price paid was $46,000. The remainder is now being surveyed and platted. and will be put on the market in a short time. The land is admirably adapted for truck gardening purposes, and the sales will probably be very rapid When the last 240 acres has been sold, the famous Bon Harbor farm will be a thing of the past, and only pleasant memories and the old homestead will recall the past.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Kansas Wheat Crop.

Despite the floods and heavy rains in Kansas that State will this year harvest at least 70,000,000 bushels of wheat The crop this year from Kansas will be a finer quality than has been produced in that State for many years. The heavy rains have been the agency to eradicate for this season the dreaded Hessian fly. The grain has been hardened into as perfect wheat as it is possible to secure.

It is estimated that there are 5,400,000 acres under wheat this season in Kansas. A good day's work for a binder is 12 acres, The crew of this machine consists of a man to drive and two to gather the sheaves and put them in shocks. Figuring on this basis it will require 45,000 men to harvest the Kansas wheat crop in 10 days. Wages during harvest time are high for farm hands. Placing the figure at $2.50 a day for each man it will cost $1,126,000 for labor. Added to this is cost of binding twine, wear and tear on machines, food for the hands which will bring the cost fully up to $1,175,000 At about 70 cents a bushel the Kansas farmers ought to have a profit of $45,000,000 to $49,000,000 on their wheat crop.

The crying need now in that State is labor An appeal has been sent to the country for men to harvest this immense Kansas crop. Farmers have gone to the cities for labor to take in the golden grain, but are finding difficulty Tramps in that State are being impressed into service. There is employment for men in Kansas by the thousands, both in the farm fields and on railroad construction work

I have practiced medicine for 36 years and have consulted the leading physicians in this country in regard to a remedy for Dyspepsia, but have never been able to find anything that would affect a cure until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have suffered with stomach trouble for years. Could not eat anything but milk toast for months, but since I used Kodol I can eat anything and feel that my health is better than it ever was in my life. I cannot say enough for Kodol for it has saved my life and I know that it will cure any case of Dyspepsia if taken as directed.—M. D. Settle M. D., Big Hill, Ky.

The Dowie "Pledge."

Harry Giovannoli, writing from Washington to the Danville Advocate says: Washington is looking for a visit from the Rev. John Alexander Dowie some time this fall. Dowie, as you may have heard, is going to New York in October, accompanied by two thousand of his followers half of them women, to convert that wicked city, and it is possible that he may stop in Washington, either going or coming, and give this town a coating or two of whitewash. It needs it—in spots. By the way, if you join the Dowie movement here is the oath or vow you are supposed to take:

I vow in the name of God, my Father, and of Jesus the Christ, His Son and my Saviour, and of the Holy Ghost, who proceeds from the Father and the Son that I will be a faithful member of Zion Restoration Host, organized at the Shiloh Tabernacle in the city of Zion on Lord's Day Sept. 1003, and I declare that I recognize John Alexander Dowie General Overseer of the Christian Catholic church in Zion, of which I am a member in his threefold prophetic office, as the Messenger of the Covenant, the Prophet foretold by Moses and Elijah the Restorer. I promise to the fullest extent of all my powers to obey all rightful orders issued by him directly or by his properly appointed officers, and to proceed to any part of the world, wherever he shall direct, as a member of Zion Restoration Host, and that all family ties and obligations, and all relation to all human government shall be held subordinate to this vow, this declaration and this promise This I make in the presence of God and of all the visible and invisible witnesses.

Weak and older people are more or less afflicted from inactivity of the kidneys With feebleness and age the kidneys become sluggish and do not expel the impurities from the system that nature intended they should. For this purpose Gay-o-la is especially intended; it assists nature by restoring the kidneys to a healthy and active condition. Sold by Wood & Campbell.

Fine Point.

Here is a fine point in law. See what you can make of it. Some time ago a negro in Alabama was tried for murder and sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead. The sentence was carried out by the sheriff: he was suspended by the neck for fifteen minutes and pronounced dead by the attending surgeons, After being cut down his body was turned over to another medical man who was desirous of making some scientific experiments, After working with the body for several hours life was restored, and the negro is alive and well today. Now the question arises In the eyes of the law is the man dead or is he alive? If he is dead he is very much alive for a dead man, while if he is alive he has not been hanged by the neck until dead He has been tried, convicted, sentenced and hung, although not dead. Can he be tried again for the same offense?

Your Hair

"Two years ago my hair was falling out badly. I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and soon my hair stopped coming out."
Miss Minnie Hoover, Paris, Ill.

White Caps.

Several weeks ago Harrison Webb and family, who live in Marion near the lines of Boyle and Casey counties, were notified to leave and given 30 days to obey the summons Mr. Webb, however, did not shake the dust of marion from his feet as ordered but prepared to defend himself.

When the thirty days had expired the white caps came thirty or forty strong, one night last week They were given a warm reception in the nature of the contents from a double barreled shot gun and from two or three pistols. It is claimed that a negro was killed and two other members of the band of regulators severely wounded. The dead negro and the wounded white men were carried away by their comrades. Webb's house was fired into by the white caps in response to his fiery welcome but no one was hurt. The front door was riddled with bullets.—Lebanon Enterprise.

Lebanon Locals.

From The Falcon.

Mr. W. N. Finley, step-father of Mr. J. E. Wilmott, of Lebanon died at his home in Louisville this morning. Mr. Wilhoite left this afternoon to attend the funeral.

Mr. B. Terhune, the Bradfordsville miller, opened an office Thursday in the Opera house building on Main street in Lebanon, where he is buying large quantities of wheat. He is paying 75 cents per bushel for the new crop as it comes from the thresher, and has his team busy hauling it from here to his mill.

Rev J. J. Cole returned Thursday from Corbin where he went to perform two marriage ceremonies. While there he participated in the dedication of the new Masonic hall of Cooper lodge. About 1,000 people were present and partook of the feast that was prepared for the occasion. Mr. Cole delivered an address and was appointed Grand Chaplain.

Mrs. R. F. Lanham, aged 57 years, died of cancer at the home of her daughter Mrs. Deboe Boswell, Friday. The funeral was conducted from the Haysville church Sunday afternoon. Rev. R. L. Purdom officiated. The deceased leaves a husband and eight children, six boys and two girls, all of whom are grown.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by Haydon's drugstore.

Historic Farm

One of the historic farms of Nelson county is the old Charles Moorehead place, situated on the Beech Fork river, about four miles southwest of Bardstown This place originally contained 500 acres and was purchased by Charles Morehead, afterwards Governor of Kentucky, from Caldwell Strother in 1794. Immediately after purchasing the tract of land, Mr. Morehead erected thereon a residence built of hewn poplar logs, weather boarded He made his home there till 1809, when he sold his farm to Patrick Tewell, and removed from the county. The property remained entirely in the Tewell family until several years ago when it was divided up and sold. In Morehead's time the land was heavily timbered, mostly with poplar, and all of the outhouses, several of which are still standing, as well as the residence, were built of that material. The original dwelling is situated about three hundred yards from the river and occupies a picturesque position. The farm is now owned by Messrs. William and Sil Metcalf and Ignatius Tewell. The latter is a grandson of the Patrick Tewell mentioned above.—Standard

Catarrh of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded; when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves, and causes the glands to secrete mucin, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach. For years I suffered with Catarrh of the Stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—J R Rhea, Coppell, Texas, Sold by C. J. Haydon.

Evansville, Ind., Monday night was the scene of a clash between a mob after a negro murderer and a company of militia. The latest news says that three victims of the riot of Monday night died in the hospital, making a total of nine dead. Physicians pronounce thirty five seriously wounded, while the total number of injured is nearly fifty. The situation is still critical. Several militia companies were ordered to the city and the city and the police force was strengthened. It is possible that martial law will be proclaimed if further rioting occurs.

Notwithstanding the strenuous efforts of ex Gov. Bradley and other workers in behalf of Augustus E. Wilson at this writing it looks as if Col. Morris B. Belknap will win the Republican nomination for governor in a walk. Col. Belknap has made no great noise about his campaign but has simply let it be known that he desired the nomination and good men all over the state recognizing his true merit and fitness for the position are rallying to his support and unless all signs fail it will be Tel nap on the first ballot.

Pope Leo the venerable head of the Catholic church is lying at the point of death at Rome and it is said though that he can last more than a few hours. There are many surmises as to the probable successor to papacy. Cardinal Gotti appears to be the most likely to succeed to that high office.

FARM-ORCHARD AND GARDEN

By J. S. TRIGG.

It takes nature a hundred years to produce a tree which a man with a sharp ax can destroy in fifteen minutes.

The wise cook will bake the crust for her lemon and custard pies before she makes the pie; then the bottom crust won't look and taste like half cooked macaroni.

The robin builds a good, large, substantial nest and could seemingly care for six or eight young birds, but we have never found a robin's nest with over four eggs in it and usually only three.

Some women are so set in their way that they will not allow modern conveniences which would ease their household labors to be brought into the house, preferring to do their work in the hard old way.

It will cost about $1 to give the home farm a name of its own and have a batch of note heads and envelopes printed with the name of the farm and its owner on them. It is a question if $1 can be spent to better advantage.

We took up some white cedar posts recently which had been set only six years and found them decayed to the point of worthlessness. A willow post will last four years and be grown for 2 cents, while the cedar post costs 14 cents.

The farm separator is not only an economic blessing, but if the old motto, "Cleanliness is next to godliness," is true it performs a theological mission as well. The dirt which will be taken from the milk is dirt which you do not know is there.

Where a farmer of standing and influence is wheedled by some swindler or fakir for a consideration to furnish the prestige of his name to rope his neighbors into a scheme the sooner he moves from that community the better, for his neighbors will never forgive and never forget.

Not one country schoolhouse in ten is kept up as it should be. While it may be all right inside, the exterior surroundings are enough to make a child hate to go to school, when if the director and the patrons would get up a little enthusiasm and patriotism it might be made a pretty and inviting place.

Recognizing the fact that locality and soil have much to do with the excellence of any given variety of strawberry, we say that with us the Gandy gives us the best flavored berries, the latest berries and the largest ones, but not the largest yield. From our point of view it seems like a sin to sell Gandy berries so long as a man can stand it to sit up nights and eat them.

The men who held over the onion crop or bought stocks last fall for the expected better spring prices have been most grievously disappointed this year. There was during April a perfect glut of this excellent on the market, and the prices were such as to bring tears to the eyes of the owners. In fact, hundreds of thousands of bushels were dumped to get rid of them. A man takes chances in holding this crop over.

During the snowy and wintry week the last of April we passed on our way to work every morning the nests of two robins and wondered why these birds did not have sense enough to put off their courting and family cares until later in the season when there would have been more pleasure and fun in the business. These birds reminded us very much of these young fools of our own race who get married on what they think is love and $2.75.

Quite a little is being written about the agricultural possibilities of Alaska. It would seem that wheat, barley, rye and many kinds of garden stuff are being very successfully raised well up toward the arctic circle and that there are immense summer ranges of good grass land for stock. Still, we hardly look to see settlers making a race for that section to take up homesteads just yet. Nine months winter is too much even if the summer days are twenty hours long.

The difference between just common things and the best things is well illustrated in this item from Florida: The strawberry growers of the common fruit during April were getting $4.50 per crate for their berries. One grower of the Klondike berry, a very superior variety, could not fill the demand for the product of his twenty acre patch at $11.25 per crate. There is always sure to be enough of the cheap and common things produced to supply the demand for such things and very often too much, while the very best products for which rich people will pay fancy prices are almost always short.

The Pain of Silence.

"Why women," the wit was saying again, "suffer in silence."

"I can readily believe that you do suffer in silence," the man replied. "You take so much pleasure in talk."—Philadelphia Press.

TO ROAST MEAT.

Something It Is Needless, Few Houses Keepers Know How to Do.

There are few cooks who would not feel indignant if told that they did not know how to roast meat, yet there are but few housekeepers in ten who can do it properly. To begin with, they do not have the requirements, for roasted meat is always cooked before an open fire. What we call roasted meat is really baked meat, and when it is properly prepared it is a very satisfactory substitute.

Meat that is to be cooked in this way should never be washed, but wiped instead with a damp cloth. If it cannot be cleaned in that way do not purchase it at all. Do not rub salt and pepper over it, as instructed in the majority of recipes, for this extracts the juices, and that is a mistake. Have the oven as nearly redhot as possible, scatter a little of the fat trimmed from the meat over the bottom of the dripping pan, lay the meat on it and put it into the hot oven. Do not put a drop of hot water into the pan, for if you do the meat will have a taste as if boiled. Let it remain in the oven, without opening the door, for at least five minutes, longer if the oven is not very hot. Never mind if it does appear to be burning. You want it to sear over quickly so that the juices cannot escape. When that is done let the oven gradually become cooler, allowing the meat to cook more slowly. When it is nearly half done add salt and pepper. Mix what you think you will need and apply it a little at a time as you turn the meat from side to side.

If the roast is to be rare let it cook fifteen minutes for every pound—that is, allow sixty minutes for a four pound roast. If it must be cooked until white clear through give thirty minutes to the pound. My friends like it that when cooked twenty minutes.—Indiana Farmer.

Butterfly Centerpiece.

An effective lace centerpiece is shown in the accompanying cut. The design has met with great favor among lace workers, probably from the fact that it is a distinctive pattern and suggests something definite. Some designs seem to be merely a bit or nbes arrangement of lines and crosses, with no shape or form, but this lovely design of butterflies is really recognized. In putting in the filling stitches it would give variety, without spoiling the effect, to make opposite butterflies alike. The body parts and small wings should be filled in with close stitches. The large wings may have more open filling stitches. The antenne or feelers should be worked on the linen after the center is put in. They may be outlined, but will look better if solid and more effective.

Richest Cardeneses.

A field in which women gifted with artistic taste and an ordinary amount of technical skill may earn money is the designing and making of cardeses for the butcher, which appeal to women with a fancy for individual belongings. The piece of kid or fine leather from which the cardease is made is cut five inches wide and ten long. It is first ruled off into two sections by a light pencil line, each section being 5 by 5 inches. On one section the monogram of the owner is sketch-

Corn Timbales.

From the Boston Cooking school comes a recipe for corn timbales which may be made from left over cold corn, fresh or canned. Chop the corn fine, season with salt and pepper and add two eggs slightly beaten, one and a half tcaspoonfuls of melted butter and a pint of scalded milk. This is really a custard and should, therefore, be handled delicately. Pour the mixture into buttered timbale irons, set them in a pan of hot water in a slow oven until firm. Turn out on a hot platter and send to the table garnished with crisp parsley.

Working Girls' Club.

Cleveland has a flourishing working girls' club, which was established through the generosity of a number of ladies. The object is to furnish for the girls who work in stores and factories a place where they can meet in large, comfortable rooms and have study classes, lectures and concerts. The club has a gymnasium, reading room and a lecture hall.

Rosy Cheeks.

For bringing a fresh color to the face it is recommended to bathe it in tepid water. Then apply a lotion made of equal parts of rosewater and glycerin, with a few drops of spirits of ammonia added. Rub it thoroughly into the skin, then wipe with a soft, fine towel.

The Dorset sheep will bring the most lambs, the Cotswold are the best mutton sheep, the Merino produces the finest wool and the Shropshires are the best all round sheep for a farm where from fifty to a hundred sheep are kept.

India has a very plentiful wheat harvest this year, one of the greatest crops which the country has ever raised, but a bad feature is that the superstitions of the people prevent them from so hoarding this surplus as to prevent their periodical famines.

We have a young friend who got his home in shape, furniture and domestic equipment all complete, before he got married, which is so much better than hiking off to some justice or parson to get married and then going to live with the old folks.

A good many men in the west in trying to produce both beef and butter on their farms do well with neither. The two interests are always and forever clashing, and most men will make a better combination with the steer and the hog or the dairy cow and the hog.

A great deal of very careful scientific and thorough work is being done in the state of Iowa and Illinois in the effort to improve the quality of the corn. Already by the use of selected and pedigreed seed an increase in yield of twenty-five bushels per acre is reported from Illinois.

It is but reiterating a baldheaded truth to say that any man is a fool to ship to any commission house which offers more than the going prices for a product, and still men are being bitten in this manner all the time because their greed and avarice are better developed than their common sense.

A lady who died recently in the east left by will to her husband $100 per month and her cat and dog $50 per month. From this it would appear that the deceased lady thought just twice as much of her husband as she did of her cat and dog. We know of cases where it is just the other way.

The kind of roads a whole lot of people are clamoring for will cost the taxpayers not less than $3,000 per mile. It has taken 200 years to get this kind of highways in Europe, and the people there have been further favored with an abundance of pauper labor and a military necessity to help build them.

We made the discovery this spring, in connection with a belated spell of winter coming the last of April, that the fruit buds of the apple, cherry and plum will endure at least 11 degrees of frost, provided it comes before the buds are open, and go through such an ordeal without injury. Had the bloom been fully opened such freezing would have destroyed the fruit buds.

Spraying will not prevent the ravages of the curculio, the little beast which punches holes in your nice plums for the purpose of depositing an egg and which causes the fruit to fall from the tree before it is ripe. There is only one way to get him. Spread a sheet under the tree early in the morning, jar the tree, and he will fall on the sheet, when he can be gathered up and burned. He will commence his work just as soon as the fruit gets the size of a pea.

The paper said that he was a rich farmer; had half a section of good land, lots of stock, fine home and all that; that he went to town, filled up on whisky and then went home and thrashed his good wife. Now, there is no use in censuring the saloon keeper in such a case as this, but instead this old duffer should be given thirty days at hard labor in the county jail in spite of his standing and money. This would cure him. It will cure nine out of ten of such cases.

If the public highways did not border every man's farm and were confined to a few leading thoroughfares through a county it would be easier to get good work done on such roads. Some men are so narrow and selfish that if any money is paid by them for such a purpose they want it applied on the highway in front of their lands even if three teams did not travel the road. The main traveled roads should be first put in good shape; then when this is done the byroads can receive attention.

He called at the farmer's house, praised his crop and his stock and his children, with the result that he got the granger's name signed to an order for a twenty dollar map or atlas of some sort. When he came to deliver the book the farmer's wife, a muscular female, went for the little sandy haired agent with a poker and made him cancel the order. When the old man came home to supper there was a family scene which we are prevented from properly describing in these notes and can only say that the old man looked tired when he went to bed.

The Town Trustees have determined to improve the streets of the town and with that end in view have purchased a rock crusher at a cost of $870 which will be put to work as soon as it arrives, to furnish crushed stone for the streets. It is estimated that with the crusher in operation the cost of putting new metal on the streets will be only about 45 cents per perch whereas it now costs the town $1 and $1.25

There were two games of base ball played here on the Fourth. In the morning a club from Bloomfield came in and played the "aid" nine of this place the result being a victory for the visitors by a score of 16 to 3. The afternoon game was between the first nine and a team from Wakefield. The visitors were a nice and gentlemanly lot of young men but they couldn't play ball a little bit and the home team experienced no trouble in defeating them by a score of 16 to 5. Colvin and Medley made up the battery for Springfield.

The baloon ascension given by Johnson's Chapel Sunday School last Saturday was a success Hon Scott Mayes and Dr J. H. Lampton, white and Prof Wm Baxter of Shelbyville assisted Rev. H. C. Weedeo to inflate and raise them. A great number of children were present. Six 8-inch and six 12 inch cannons were fired.

The great procession of automobiles of the Chicago Automobile Club which had been announced for weeks ahead passed though here last Friday The "procession" had dwindled to two machines and six people. The party made the start from Chicago it seems in full force but got caught in the rain when a few miles out which soaked their ardor that nearly all turned back. Others dropped out along the route until the two machines were all to go the route and reach Mammoth Cave, their original destination.

Teachers Institute.

The Washington County Teachers' Institute is in session this week at the old High School building. Prof. Ramey whose services as instructor were engaged again this year is conducting the proceedings in a manner quite satisfactory to all of the teachers Only the routine work of the Institute has been engaged in so far, but the instruction and discussion of methods have been of great benefit to all. There are about sixty teachers in attendance among the number being several who teach for the first time and to whom the information gleaned at the institute will be of great benefit. In our next week's issue we will endeavor to give more of the proceedings of the session.

The Negro Question

While opposed to lynch law it is useless to disguise the fact that as long as negroes outrage white women they will be lynched. This will be done just as quickly in the North as in the South as recent records show. When the crime against womanhood ceases lynching will cease and not till then. The Northern papers which are encouraging the negro to hold indignation meetings over the lynching of some rape fiend would be better employed in demanding a higher moral character for the negroes. At a recent negro meeting in Chicago Rev. C. H. Thomas said: "If this lynching and burning is not stopped by the constituted authorities then I say to every black man go sell your coat and buy a gun." Another frenzied speaker, Ida Wells Barnett, said: "If the white men are our friends let them show it by giving us protection. But it is for us to arm ourselves. If you don't things will go on until some day there will be rivers of blood flowing."

This sort of talk does no good. It does not intimidate anybody and it will only excite and inflame the passions of a few bad negroes to do something for which they will certainly be punished. Such utterances are more in defense of rape fiends and an encouragement for their devilishness than for the good of society. The failure of the Northern press to condemn them is a serious blunder.- E'Town News.

Remarkable Game.

Harrodsburg has discovered a phenomenal baseball pitcher in the person of Garnett Brown, a young Washington county boy whose home is in Mackville. He has pitched some remarkable games one of which occurred at Danville on the Fourth. Of this game a dispatch to the Courier-Journal says: Harrodsburg and Danville celebrated the Fourth of July with the most remarkable game of baseball ever witnessed here. Danville scored six runs in the fourth and fifth innings on two hits and three errors. After that Harrodsburg settled down and gradually overcome this lead until the ninth, when the score was tied by a home run by Houchin. From that on to the sixteenth inning it was a battle royal, neither side scoring again. Garnett Brown, the Harrodsburg graded school pitcher, allowed Danville but three hits and struck out thirty-one men. After three and a half hours' play the game was called on account of darkness.

Accident Near Bloomfield.

A serious accident occurred near Bloomfield last Monday. Mr Porter huckster, was on his way from the latter place to Booker with a heavily loaded wagon drawn by five horses. In crossing a bridge on the Springfield pike two miles from Bloomfield, the team in some manner swerved the vehicle too near the edge of the structure. One of the sills broke and the bridge went down taking the wagon with it, a distance of twenty-five feet. The horses were also drawn down and one of the animals was seriously injured. The goods and wagon were slightly damaged, but the driver escaped with a few bruises. The bridge, which was considerably wrecked has been repaired.—Standard.

Only A Joke.

What appeared to be a practical joke, says the Louisville Times, was perpetrated on several of the leading educators and college officials of Kentucky in Cincinnati one day this week. Everyone of the educators and officials had gone to the city in response to a letter in which they were advised that Andrew Carnegie, the multi-millionaire philanthropist, had set aside a large sum of money to be devoted to the advancement of educational interests in the State of Kentucky, and that a good portion of this sum was to be given to the various colleges of the State. The letter was signed by the name "Frank," and the persons addressed were requested to call for him at the Grand Hotel Tuesday at noon. The letter was addressed to the presidents of the colleges, and these were urged to bring with them the trustees and attorneys of the institutions over which they presided. Along about noon it dawned upon some of those who had "bitten" that they were victims of a practical joke, and the tip was quietly sent around that there was no such person as "Mr. Frank."

A Farce.

Judge Redwine's refusal to vacate the bence in the special term of the Breathitt county Circuit Court called for July 20th has again subjected himself to the criticism of the press and aroused a suspicion in the minds of the people that he is under the influence of Judge Hargis. If he allows this man Callahan to serve as Sheriff the special term will be a farce. With Redwine and Callahan officiating all that is needed to complete the job is to let Judge Hargis select the jury.—E'Town News.

Old Fashioned Hand Mill

While on professional business in a remote part of the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, Judge Hiram Clay McKee, of this city, ran upon an old fashioned hand mill, one of the kind spoken of in the Bible: "Two grinding at the mill," and most likely 150 years of age. He bought the mill, and now has it in Mt. Sterling, and thinks of sending it to the World's Fair at St. Louis. The lady from whom he bought the mill was about eighty years old, and she said got it from her great uncle, who gave it to her in his last days as a reward for her care and attention to him. The mill was in the garrett and had been doing the grinding for the family and neighborhood, and no doubt had crushed many bushels of corn for the famous moonshine still. The lady from whom the Judge bought the mill was a little bit shy about telling too much of its history, and doubtless suspected Judge McKee of being a revenue officer. The mill was evidently made in the Eighteenth century, and can been seen in its primitive state on application to Judge McKee. —Mt Sterling Advocate

Habit Worse Than the Disease.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Me.

When the nervous system has been shattered by the use of deadly drugs there is nothing to equal Dr. Miles' Nervine in restoring it to health and normal activity.

"I feel so grateful for what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has done for me that I must tell it for that part of humanity that suffers as I have. During the three years I suffered from nervous prostration I found no relief except when doctors gave morphine. To get rid of suffering I took morphine myself as it was the only thing that would give ease, and now you, who point with scorn at morphine using, how could you, when in such agony, knowing it about the only thing that would give relief, resist it? I knew it was a terrible habit and I knew of its deadly grasp, but I mentally realized its significance until I had used it a number of months. Oh, the misery of being addicted to such a habit. I resolved then and there to quit it and resolved I would never be a slave to any such demon. About this time I happened to notice Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine advertised and ordered a bottle. After using five bottles I can truthfully say I am cured of using morphine. Now, however much persons may doubt it, God is my witness I am cured. This testimonial is unsolicited but I feel it my duty to give it for the benefit of the suffering."—MATTIE PHILLIPS, Prescott, Ark.

THE OLD FIRE HORSE.

Pathetic Ending to His Brilliant and Glorious Career.

The story of a veteran fire horse that was misshod and found his way to the street cleaning department is told by Newell Ford in "Horses Nine." The author says:

There was no dobby about his indictment. Into his form he fit like a beautiful description. Or, as it did not fit? On his back they flung a forty pound single harness with a cozy piece of carpet as a blanket. They hooked him to a long dump cart and then with a heavy hobed whip they lashed him forth at such a rate as to begin the laborious work of removing refuse from the city streets.

Perhaps you think Old Silver could not feel the disgrace, the ignominy of it all. Could you have seen the lowered head, the limp long tail, the dulled ears and the dispirited air of his quarters you would have thought differently.

It is one thing to jump a hook and ladder truck up Broadway to the relief of a fire threatening block and quite another to pull hundreds along the cobble from one end of the city to the other. Old Silver did both these easily. Each one should have been for him a signal to stop. But it was not. In consequence he was goaded to a half every two minutes.

Sometimes he would erane his neck and look mournfully around at the unsightly load and then come to understand was the cause of all his misery. There would come into his great eyes a look of such pitiful melancholy that one might almost fancy tears rolling out. Then he would be roused by an exasperated driver, who jerked cruelly on the lines and used his whip as if it had been a flail.

To another horse, mated to anything better, the life would not have seemed hard. But to Silver, accustomed to such little amenities as friendly pats from men, and the comradeship of his fellow workers, it was like a bad dream. Had he not lost his caste? Express and dray horses, the very ones that had once scurried into side streets at sound of his hoofs, now insolently crowded him to the curb. When he had been on the fire truck Silver had yielded the right of way to none, he had held his head high; now he dodged and waited, he wore a blind bridle, and he wished neither to see nor be seen.

THE EDITOR READ AND REREAD THE LITTLE STORY.

BETH'S CAREER

By RUBY DOUGLAS

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

Forrest Harwood walked dizzily through the archway of trees built to his old home. Those two weeks of his summer holiday had been happier spent—too happily for now, was the last night, it all seemed like a dream. There had been an awakening.

Why, he asked himself, had he been so blind to the harvest he was reaping for himself? All the days he had spent telling Beth Knox of his life in New York were now to Forrest Harwood as so many stones added to the obstacle impeding his life's happiness. And with what a different purpose he had relished all the pleasant little happening in the literary world—in his world. The hope that she should learn to see it through his eyes has prompted all the prettily told incidents.

Little did he know then of the ambition that was creating within Beth's breast to be of that world, not merely in it. When he had asked her on that last night to come with him to live with him in his world, to help him climb still higher on the ladder he had chosen, she told him gently, but firmly, no. She would have a career, she would write and be some one.

And such was fact Forrest Harwood returned to his desk conscious that he had, all unintentionally, made an ambitious woman of his little playmate. He felt that she had loved him, but he had spoiled all that. She would have her career, and he would take up the work where he had left it—with no Beth.

The little blue missives from the home town were filled with enthusiasm for the new work. More and more of the ambitious woman and less of the little Beth peeped out from between the lines.

But Forrest was none the less eager to search through the great piles of mail for the coveted letters. They came at regular intervals, each one laying the foundations for big castles.

Several weeks had elapsed since a blue envelope had added to the results of letters on the editor's desk, when one morning he searched through the heap of manuscripts and nothing like met his eye.

Disappointment was his first sensation, then his heart began to beat faster, for a long, white, commonplace looking envelope with a familiar hand writing across it stared him in the face. He tore it open nervously. Beth had begun her career.

Leaning back in his chair, the editor read and reread the little story. "Why," he thought, "it is good. It is well told. It is well worth printing."

A realization of the fact that Beth's story was good took her feather and farther from Forrest. He could again, and as he finished the last page a light dawned on his face.

Turning to his stenographer, he dictated a business-like and still cool note that friendly letter to Beth. He told her the story was not bad, yet it was not available for publication. He refrained from including the usual printed slip, he said, fearing that it might discourage her. He would keep the manuscript, and she could, if she desired, submit others to him for his criticism.

When the letter was signed, the editor wore a more hopeful expression than had been on his face since his return. He saw a way out of his own unhappiness. He would win Beth yet.

After that his letters were always directed to her. Less and less of the love was suggested in them and more of the critical editor. One by one her manuscripts came to him, and one by one they were folded and placed in the drawer reserved for them. Each one brought back to Beth a letter saying there was an improvement, but that they were still "unavailable."

The stories came frequently for months and the little white envelopes came to Forrest. The manuscripts were better than any he was printing monthly in his magazine, but he must gain his end. He was not an editor in this case. He was a determined wooer.

Fewer stories and more blue letters began to arrive from the little home town. Could he read between the lines that discouragement was dawning in Beth's heart? It was with difficulty that the editor kept within the limits of New York when each letter now said plainly, "I am tired of my career." But he would wait.

One day an editorial in Beth's unmistakable style arrived at the office. It was her first attempt at editorial writing, but it was a success. "Women and Careers" it was headed, and it dealt harshly with the woman who gives up the opportunities to possess a home and husband for a career, especially a literary career. "A woman," the editorial stated, "is not intended for career, but to help man in his."

If it had not been for the picture of a probably tear stained little face some months from New York and a dejected little figure, Editor Harwood would have laughed at the strenuous manner in which the editorial was written.

As it was, he closed his desk early that evening, giving orders that he would not be at the office for a day or two. He also sent to the printer's before leaving the office the first of a series of short stories to be published in the magazine.

"Beth," he said when he had held her hand in greeting longer than was absolutely necessary for an editor to hold his contributor's hand, "the editorial on 'Women and Careers' was so good I had to come and tell you about it."

A pretty pink suffused Beth's cheek as she drew her hand away. "Did you know I wrote it, Forrest?" she asked.

"Yes," he answered, possessing himself again of her hand. "But, Beth, have you not changed your views since last summer?" He looked into her eyes searchingly.

"Yes, Forrest; I'm so tired and dis-contented. I can't write anyway," Beth did not seem to mind when he took her other hand and gently drew it head on to his breast. But remorse followed on his pleasure.

"Little girl," he said after awhile, "could you forgive me if I confessed something—if I said I had purposely kept you from publishing your manuscripts because I wanted to discourage you, if I told you they are all good and that the first of the series has already gone to the printer—could you forgive me, dear?" He looked down at her anxiously.

And Beth decided to have a husband as well as a career.

An Independent Lassie.

In front of a confectioner's shop in Paris there used to sit a woman with two wooden legs. She sold pictures and songs and played well on the violin. In 1845 she was there, very pretty and dressed with a good deal of taste, and when Louis Napoleon, then merely Prince Louis, used to go through the street nearly every day, he never passed without giving her something.

She knew him and was also aware of his pecuniary embarrassments and his political ambitions. One evening she said to him, "Monsieur, I want to say a word to you."

"Say it, madame."

"They tell me that you are a good deal cramped just now. I have at my house a comfortable sofa which is earning nothing. Let me offer it to you. You will return the favor when you are emperor."

Prince Louis did not accept the money, but he did not forget the kindness. Years after he became emperor he offered her a small annuity. The woman was as independent as she was generous. "Say to the emperor," she replied, "that it is exceedingly good of him to remember me, but I cannot accept his offer. If he had accepted alms, I would say what might have happened, but as it is, no!"

The Cost of Clothes in Russia.

Among the inhabitants of the earth who wear practically no clothes at all, the costume of the average Russian costs the least. Ten rubles, or about $7.50, will clothe a male citizen of the czar's realm, while the woman's costume will cost less than $3.

The man's costume consists of coarse cotton trousers tucked into boots of half dressed leather, a cotton shirt and a sheepskin coat. A coarse Canlet caftan bound around with a sash completes the dress.

The women wear a sarafan, or long petticoat, which is held up by straps running over the shoulders, a chemise with sleeves to the elbow, a kerchief over the head and a pair of shoes. Stockings are sometimes worn, but more frequently the legs and feet are bound with strips of cotton or linen cloth. For outdoor wear a quilted jacket or long cloak is added.

The simplicity and cheapness of this dress is not due to any lack of vanity, but to the poor circumstances under which the majority of the Russians live.

Paine's Celery Compound

Permanently Cures Sick and Nervous Headaches that Make Life Miserable.

Sick and nervous headaches are amongst the worst ills of life. The man or woman who is subject to headache at irregular intervals, goes through life bearing a load of misery and wretchedness that is terrible to think of.

Headaches as a rule, result from a disordered condition of the nervous system. Mental excitement, loss of sleep, bodily fatigue, and disordered digestion are exciting causes. When the brain becomes tired and debilitated, the whole nervous system is weakened, and headaches result. If the liver is clogged, the kidneys inactive, and digestion deranged, headaches invariably follow. To cure and prevent headache, the nervous system must be strengthened and vitalized, the most persistent cases of headache, nervous feeblness, sleeplessness, etc., are permanently cured by Paine's Celery Compound; it is the great reconstructant of the nervous system. Mrs. Henry Wentzel, St. Clair, Mich., tells of her release from suffering as follows:—

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia and sick headache for a number of years. About every week I would have a bad spell of sick headache, but since I began using Paine's Celery Compound my dyspepsia is gone, and I do not have any more headaches. I feel better than I have for years."

Miss Ida M. Snyder,
Treasurer of the Brooklyn East End Art Club.

"If women would pay more attention to their health we should have more happy wives, mothers and daughters, and if they would observe results they would find that the doctors' prescriptions do not perform the many cures they are given credit for."

"In consulting with my druggist he advised McElree's Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught, and as I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."

Wine of Cardui is a regulator of the menstrual functions and as a most astonishing tonic for women. It cures scanty, suppressed, too frequent, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, whites and flooding. It is helpful when approaching womanhood, during pregnancy, after childbirth and in change of life. It frequently brings a dear baby to homes that have been barren for years. All druggists have $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

One Minute Cough Cure

"If you were a woman," said the bachelor girl, who was entertaining a caller, "I'd show you my new frock, but as you are a man I'll show the slippers that go with it."
